Question 9.

Are there any general additional services you feel that UTASS could offer?

(13 Responses)

- I did like the farm bookkeeping course ran a few years ago by Strutt and Parker, he's now gone to George F White's. A local job vacancy social media platform, I've noticed the Barnard Castle Jobs Facebook group is quite slow to approve posts or attract many candidates. We'd like to keep our employment local where possible.
- Advise the public that it is not just there for farmers but also for the local residents
- More IT for older farmers
- We will all need help on the new farm subsidies
- There is a lunch club for older farmer Why not one for women women farmers, farmer's wives & others.
- Provide replacement ear tags
- They may do this but if not, knowledge of companies that can offer legal advice - for free. Many farmers need legal advice at various times when a problem occurs and their usual solicitor may not be the appropriate one to go to.
- Keep coming up with innovative ideas to support all ages. Teaching on all areas of social media for the elderly & parents for confidence & to be aware of scams.
- More talks more activity sessions to attend eg crafts
- Help get a full time post office
- Something to help the local businesses which perhaps are not directly associated with farming but support the community. Perhaps a heritage section. Perhaps a few more classes and qualifications not directly linked to farming but perhaps can help using local sources
- Security for old peoples houses
- Banking, mortgages, insurance brokers

Question 10.

Are there any general additional services you feel that UTASS could offer?

(13 Responses)

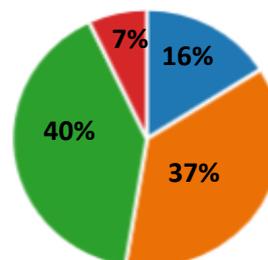

- Provision of a meeting place (when safe to do so) for a support group for the effects of covid. Be it for impact on health, family life, work etc.
- Supply of masks and sanitiser on hand for people to buy.
- I know they help out already in the community, just to try and reach out to people living and working on their own
- Possibly more music and memories sessions for the elderly. Even online courses for young people and even adults.
- Make sure you keep older farmers up to date with the covid rules and jobs.
- Supporting people who have been totally isolated back into going out. Bringing back peoples' confidence.
- Already doing very well but maybe post covid support , helping people with debt, jobs and mental health.
- Hospital appointments transport
- I feel they have been very helpful in this area.
- Run more updated courses eg. eg injection required by Red Tractor
- I wonder if, when restrictions ease, UTASS could be part of providing additional social/sport opportunities to children and young people (if that was what was wanted, of course!). I've heard some parents saying how much they feel children have missed out the past year.
